

The chart below has been created using dPrime. Each data series has been created by analyzing prime numbers in range from 2 to N. Horizontal axis represents differences between two following prime numbers. Vertical axis represents how many times each difference value occurred, but this value is divided by amount of prime numbers in specified range (these amounts are displayed in legend).

